PREFACE

A family history is priceless. "The Life and Times Narrative Paris Bullard" is done so present family members and later generations may know and appreciate the role of the Bullard pioneer families and their contribution to the settlement of the "western frontier."

This Narrative is not a scholarly nor literary work. It is a family story.

The intent is to document the life of Paris Bullard along with historical events and backdrops during the state of Tennessee's formative years. Paris Bullard was born during the Civil War, lived through Reconstruction, Jim Crow era, Gilded Age, Gay Nineties, the Industrial Age in America, Roaring Twenties, World War I, Prohibition and the first half of the Great Depression.

The Bullard Narratives are a series of four Volumes*:

- -- Volume I, "The Life and Times Narrative of Joseph Bullard"
- -- Volume II, "The Life and Times Narrative of John Bullard Sr."
- -- Volume III, "The Life and Times Narrative of Isaac & son Henry Bullard"
- -- Volume IV, "The Life and Times Narrative of Paris Bullard"

All four Volumes (and descendant charts) can be found at:

Bullardgenealogy.com

The Bullard Narratives are a work in progress and subject to on-going additions, revision and fact finding. Refer back periodically. Revision dates are noted on each Volume.

Author's note: This Bullard Narrative was created for the enjoyment of Bullard family members. Its primary purpose is to put into perspective the genealogy and American history of Paris Bullard from eastern Tennessee. The information can be used as a road map for future research. Relevant sources are cited. Numerous endnotes and footnotes validate and authenticate the Narrative. Any errors are my own. A few portions of the Narrative are noted conjecture to move the story along. Names, dates, maps, and locales are accurate to the extent possible. Some references have been meticulously documented and others outsourced. Not all sources are cited. As with all genealogy research, there may be unintentional errors or omissions. Naturally, readers should self check all information for accuracy.

I would like to thank my wife, Bonnie, for her endless hours of patience, understanding and help during the years of research that made the Narratives possible.

Corrections, comments or additional information are welcome. Please email to: JosBullardNCTN@aol.com

The author encourages readers to re-visit "Bullardgenealogy.com" often for the latest version and updated material.

Bullard Genealogy Narratives: A New Approach

Bullard Genealogy Narratives

The Bullard Life and Times Genealogy Narratives are more than lists of names and dates. It is a vibrant story of geography, history, culture and politics. It puts into context the lives of the Bullard descendants and provides intimate insight into their daily lives.

The Bullard Narratives (Volume I, Joseph Bullard; Volume II, John Bullard Sr.; Volume III, Isaac Bullard and son Henry Bullard; and Volume IV, Paris Bullard) covers the Bullard family line from the 1730's to 1936. The Narratives are family stories of six generations of Bullards who originated in Northern Ireland (Scots-Irish), settled in the Northern Neck of Virginia then moved to western North Carolina and eventually migrated over the Blue Ridge Mountains into eastern Tennessee. This was a period of turbulent times in American history beginning with the European migration, Revolutionary War years, the Antebellum period, the Civil War, and the emergence of the United States as a world power.

Combining Genealogy and History

Genealogy investigation is usually confined by researchers who take great pains to accurately record and list descendant names, birthdates, marriages, and deaths . . . a sort of one-dimensional compilation of facts and some trivia. The Bullard Narratives take it one step further. It crafts and inter-weaves the how, when, why and where of their life and times. From raising families, planting crops, fighting Indians, serving on juries, etc., the Bullard Narratives give the reader a sense and understanding of their surrounding environs.

Maps are used extensively to give the reader a sense of place and geographical orientation. Comments, pictures and observations based on sourced materials are included to bring the Narratives to life.

As the Narratives unfold, celebrated personalities and relevant historical events are intertwined with the story. Sources have been researched and are cited in end notes or footnotes.

Puzzle

Collecting information and evidence from the past is difficult. Names mentioned in early historical documents are misspelled or are no longer legible. Other records (including bible records) have been burned or lost. TVA reservoirs and dams have flooded old homesteads and graves. Some of the verifiable past is irretrievably gone.

However, one can ask questions from the evidence that is at hand and like a puzzle, piece together a chronological, multi-dimensional story. The Bullard Narratives are such a puzzle. Some of the pieces are missing, but the story lives on.

Reader Involvement

Readers are invited to contribute to the Narratives by offering their corrections, additions, and comments. Sourced documents and facts are welcome. The more input from readers and shared information, the more complete the Narrative. It is a living document to be read, amended, and updated.

The author encourages readers to start their own genealogy Narrative. If relevant, copy excerpts from the Bullard Narratives and place it in your own family story. Draw maps to show a sense of place. Don't be afraid to add family lore or oral history. Do whatever it takes to bring your descendants to life. A Narrative can start and end at any point in time. (i.e. Joseph Bullard lived from ~1732 to 1788, but, the bulk of his Narrative is told from 1775 to 1790.)

All four Volumes of the Bullard Narratives are available on the Internet in PDF files gratis. With the advent of Internet search engines and PDF file search tools, a reader can scan in seconds, a person's name or key word from the 200+ page document. The Narratives have complete lists of every person named in sourced documents. Some genealogists abbreviate sourced materials in order to highlight their own descendants. This hinders the sharing of information. For example, in the Bullard Narratives, not only are the Bullard names highlighted on a jury list, but all jury names are included. A reader researching a specific name can easily find their descendant. It can illuminate a reader's genealogy puzzle piece that was previously unknown or missing. Such a process extends genealogy research for the benefit of all.

Origin of the Bullard Name*

There are two historical meanings of the name Bullard. The oldest is derived from the French word bulle which means letters, or church letters. The name was given to scribes who wrote or copied papal church documents or decrees that carried the "Papal Seal" or bulla.
The second origin was most probably derived from the French surnames de Bulard, or de Bulwarde. These French names first emerged around the 10th Century, and traveled to England with William the Conqueror in 1066. The name then journeyed with the Anglo-Saxons as they migrated an intermarried throughout England, Scotland and Northern Ireland. The name was given to one who worked as a bull herder or a keeper of cattle.
The Bullard surname is a derivative from the old English word Bulluc which means bull herder.

Through the centuries, there were different English spellings of Bullard:
(Bullwarde, Buller, Bullen, Ballaugh, Bullar, Bullin, Bulla, Ballard and Bullard.)

Notations: Researching the Bullard Name in Eastern Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky

Research records obtained for this Narrative were derived from court petitions, court pleas and judgments, jury notices, court findings, marriage records, land grant documents, U.S. census data, county deeds, diaries, letters, abstracts and wills. Genealogy records and accounts are liberally referenced with endnotes and footnotes. Oral family history or conjecture will be noted. Historical events are derived from historical references.

In the mid to late 1700's, territorial, state and county records had different spellings of the Bullard name. With low literacy rates, scribes of early court sessions did not transcribe words very well. Officials and court clerks of the day did their best to phonically record and spell names when given orally. Consistency and uniformity was not a requirement in early court and legal documents. During this period, the Bullard surname was transcribed or translated as:

Bullard, Buller, Bullah, Bullaugh, Bullen, Bullar, Butler, Ballard and Bullin.

However, by the late 1790's, the Bullard surname appearing in Eastern Tennessee documents, census data, and court records, had pretty much settled on the "Bullard" spelling. Of note, registration of deeds and other court documents sometimes occurred a year or more after the transaction happened. (i.e. The sale of a deeded tract of land might have occurred in 1800, but the official court registration of the deed could have been registered months later or in 1801 or as late as 1802.)

A number of U.S. Census data recorded different spellings of the Bullard first and last name. Census enumerators and court clerks did their best to phonically record and spell names when given orally. Consistency and uniformity was not a requirement. Paris Bullard's name was sometimes spelled, "Parris, "Harris," 'Davis" or "Pariss." The Bullard surname was transcribed in two Census records as "Bullar" and "Buttard."

Throughout this Narrative, the scroll icon denotes sourced Virginia, North Carolina or eastern Tennessee court documents, U.S. Census data or other written records. Documents and dates are transcribed verbatim from preserved records or sources that reference the Bullard name or offspring.

Early American Bullard Groups

There were many unrelated Bullard families who first settled in the American colonies in the late 1600's and early 1700's.
From genealogy research, there appears to be four main groups of early Bullard families.

1. The Massachusetts English Group

The Massachusetts English Group settled near Dedham, Watertown and Medfield, Massachusetts around 1635. Some migrated to western Pennsylvania. Genealogists and related families have well documented this Bullard family group.
Principal names include:
William, Benjamin, John, George and Robert Bullard, (Watertown, (Watertown, Dedham, Medfield MA);
Richard N. Bullard (Sudbury, MA); Jeremiah, Benjamin, Asa Bullard (Middlesex, MA)

2. The Virginia/North Carolina English Group

One group of Bullard's came from England, settled in Massachusetts, moved to the northern neck of Virginia and eventually migrated to North Carolina.
Principal names include:
Ambrose Bullard (Spotsylvania Co. VA) James Bullard, Thomas Bullard, Richard Bullard (Orange Co. VA)

One group immigrated to the Isle of Wight, Nansemond and Surrey County areas of coastal Virginia and later migrated west to the south-central region areas of North Carolina. Some settled in western South Carolina, northern Georgia and Florida.
Principal names include:
Thomas Bullard, Richard Bullard, Nathan Bullard/Reuben Bullard, Jeremiah Bullard, Robert Bullard, Benjamin Bullard , Henry Bullard, Ambrose Bullard, William Bullard, John Bullard, (Caroline/Johnston/Sampson/Robeson/Bladen/Edgecombe/Duplin Co. NC);
James Bullard (Jasper Co. GA)

3. The Pennsylvania/Maryland/Virginia/North Carolina/Tennessee Scots-Irish Group

This Bullard group originated in Northern Ireland (Ulster), and immigrated to ports in Philadelphia, PA, Baltimore MD and New Castle, DE in the early 1700's. This group of Scots-Irish Bullard's migrated into western Pennsylvania and the northern neck of Virginia (in and around Augusta/Frederick Co. VA). From the mid to late 1700's, some settled in the Shenandoah Valley, (western Virginia) while others moved further south into western North Carolina (Granville District/Old Rowan County), and eventually into eastern Tennessee.
Joseph Bullard (b. ~1732) originated in this group and eventually settled in eastern Tennessee around 1775.
Principal names include:
John Bullard, Joseph Bullard, Isaac Bullard, Nathaniel Bullard (Frederick Co. VA, Shenandoah Valley, (Granville District) in Old Rowan County, NC, Washington Co. NC/TN, Greene Co. and Claiborne Co. TN.)

4. Other Bullard Groups

A number of genealogists have concluded there are other Bullard family groups who settled in colonial America. Each with a short or sporadic descendant line. Of note, there are ten to twelve separate Bullard families (unrelated) who settled in colonial America.

1850's

Paris Bullard

Claiborne County 1853

On Monday, September 26, 1853, at the age of 26, Henry Bullard, son of Isaac Bullard (b. 1794), married Celia Haynes (age ~22). The couple went to the Claiborne County courthouse and obtained a License and were married by Justice of the Peace, Jacob Cloud.* Henry had known Celia for at least 6 years. Henry and his father, Isaac Bullard were living in the same 1848 Grainger County, Tennessee tax district as was Celia's father, Sterling Haynes and older Brother, Abraham Haynes.

Depiction

Long engagements were common; it was not considered proper for a young couple to marry until the man could support his wife in a decent home and until the bride had collected her bridal clothes and established a trousseau, which included such important items as bedding, linens, curtains, and kitchen-ware. Before 1860, a typical couple was married by the Justice of the Peace or at the bride's home in the presence of immediate family members and a few close friends.

Two months after their marriage, Celia gave birth to their first son, William B. Bullard, on November 26, 1853.

Throughout most, if not all, of his adult life, Henry Bullard was a farmer. Celia would bear four children before Henry's untimely death around 1862:

1. William B. (b. 1853)
2. Isaac H. (b.~1859)
3. John A. (b. 1860)

1860 U.S. Federal Census: Henry Bullard Household

Claiborne County 1860

On June 1, 1860, Henry Bullard and Celia (Haynes) Bullard were living in Claiborne County, Tennessee with the first three of their four children. The 1860 U.S. Federal Census in Claiborne County, Tennessee* lists:

- Henry (34),
- Celia (30),
- William B. (6) (middle name most likely Bowyer),
- Isaac H. (3) (middle name most likely Henry),
- John A. (6 mo.) (middle name most likely Abraham).

Paris Bullard would be born two years later in July of 1862.

Also living in the Henry Bullard household was his father, Isaac Sr., age 70. Henry's occupation was "Farm laborer." (For U.S. census purposes, a "Farm laborer" was a person who "tills land on a farm and assumes no risk of crop failures or other contingencies. He has a definite wage assured him."

Meaning Henry Bullard did not own the farm he was farming on and was hired to work the land. The value of his real estate in 1860 was listed at $0, and the value of Henry's personal estate was $120.

CIVIL WAR – Claiborne County, Tennessee

Claiborne County 1861

The American Civil War, was a war fought from April 12, 1861 to April 9, 1865 to determine the survival of the Union or independence for the Confederate states. In 1861, there were 34 states. Seven Southern slave states, including Tennessee*, declared their session from the United States and formed the Confederate States of America.

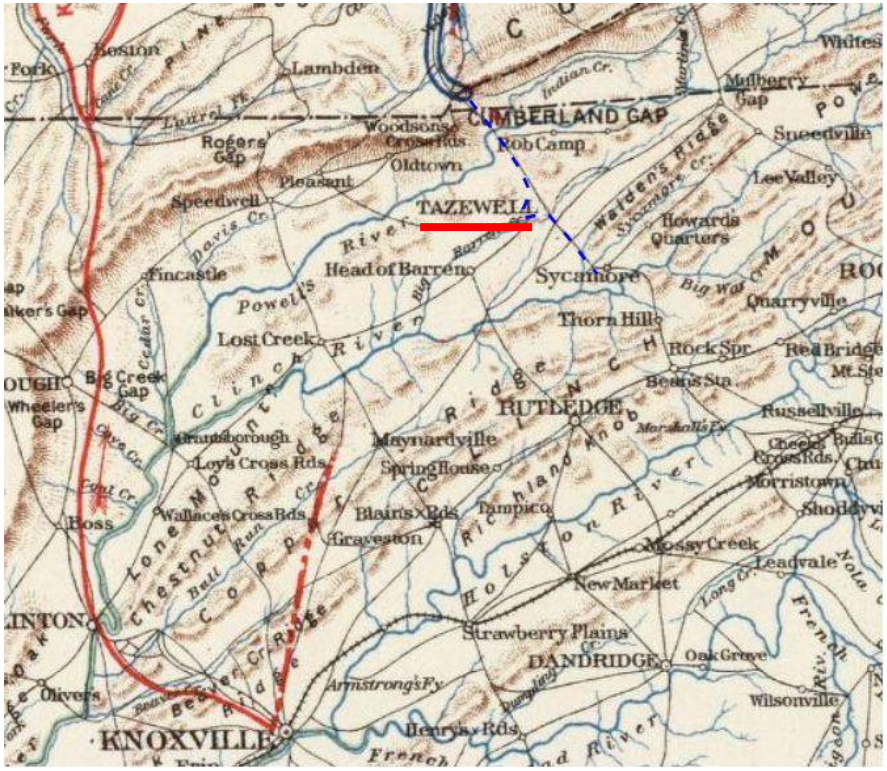
Claiborne County, Tennessee and the Cumberland Gap area figured prominently in the Civil War strategy of both the North and South, changing hands four times. (Today, traces of the old military road that connected battlements on the pinnacle above Cumberland Gap can be found.)

During the Civil War, the people of Claiborne and adjacent Union County were often divided.

Division often happened within families, and many neighbors took opposite sides. There was strong Unionist sentiment throughout both counties. (The slavery issue was not as important in eastern Tennessee as in other parts of the state.) Claiborne and Union County furnished hundreds of troops to the Union Army. Tennessee recruits for the Union Army were organized into three cavalry and four infantry regiments.

Although most residents of Claiborne and Union County were pro-Union, some members of the Haynes family sided with the Confederates. Paris Bullard's mother's first cousin, Jacob E. Haynes, son on Abraham Haynes, enlisted in the 14th East Tennessee Confederate Calvary, Company F, in August of 1862. Family oral history tells that he died in battle 10 weeks after enlisting. One might speculated if some of the Haynes families were later ostracized in the community since most residents were pro-Union.

No major military operations took place in Claiborne County. Although no major battles were fought, there were several bloody skirmishes including "The Battle of Tazewell." The devastation of Claiborne County was less than what occurred in other parts of the South.



The average age of a Civil War soldier was 22 years old. Male ancestors who were born between the years 1828 and 1847, had a good chance of serving during the War.

* On May 6, 1861, Tennessee, by legislative act, seceded from the Union.

The Battle of Tazewell, Tennessee

In the summer of 1862, the Union Army occupied the strategic mountain of Cumberland Gap, Tennessee. Confederate troops occupied the land just south of Tazewell, Tennessee along the Clinch River.

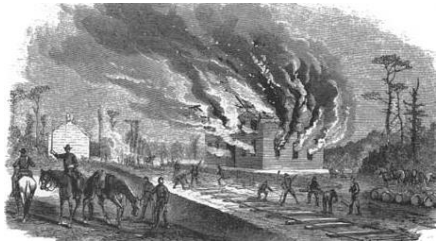
Union troops at Cumberland Gap: drawing

On August 2, 1862, The 16th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, marched south from their stronghold at Cumberland Gap toward Tazewell, Tennessee. The purpose of their mission was to find and acquire forage and supplies for the Federal garrison holding Cumberland Gap, Tennessee. During several days of foraging and extended trips south of Tazewell, periodic skirmishes with Rebel cavalry forces occurred.

One such skirmish was the Battle of Tazewell. During a week of successfully filling their wagons with much needed food and hay for their animals, Union troops encountered see-saw fighting with rebel troops near the town of Tazewell. Union troops eventually withdrew back to Cumberland Gap but not before over 75 Union and Confederate troops were killed or wounded.

Depiction

Later that Fall, on November 11, 1862, a small contingent of Confederate troops, who had been stationed in Tazewell, evacuated south. During the withdrawal, a fire broke out in town and destroyed the greater portion of Tazewell. About twenty buildings were burned, including the courthouse, a large brick hotel and several brick storehouses.



Depiction

Tazewell was the county seat of Claiborne County, Tennessee. Many court documents were destroyed in the fire of 1862.

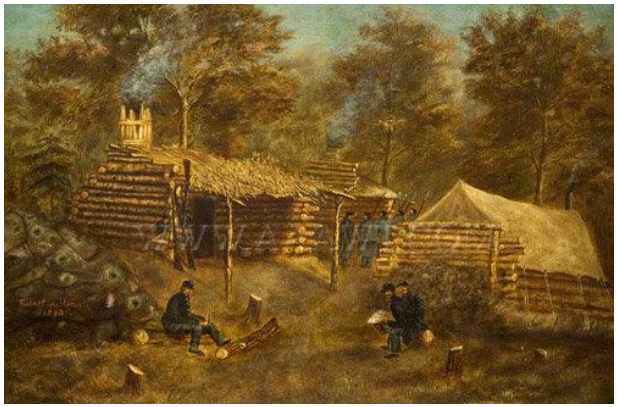
Paris Bullard's father, Henry Bullard, killed

Family oral history reveals that Henry Bullard, around age 35, although not in the Union Army, might have been a Union courier due to his familiarly with the surrounding area.*
Henry's first son, William B. Bullard, who was around the age of 8 or 9 years old at the time, was an eye witness to the story of Henry's demise. As the account is told, in 1862, during the first years of the Civil War, an escaped confederate soldier (or deserter) was holed up in a hillside cabin in Union County, Tennessee.

Henry Bullard knew the confederate soldier and notified the authorities of his whereabouts. The local Union company commander took some troops and surrounded the cabin. Henry walked up to the front of the cabin porch and coaxed the soldier out in the open.



Depiction

When the soldier came out and saw had been tricked by Henry, he was upset and said, "I see what you have done Henry, I'm going to have to tap you."

The Confederate man lunged at Henry and stabbed him in the chest with a pen knife.

Depiction

At first, the wound did not appear too severe. During Henry's recovery, he contracted pneumonia. The authorities wanted to hang the confederate soldier for attempted murder, but Henry asked them to wait. Henry said that if he died, conduct an autopsy to see if the knife puncture the heart. Henry told the Union officer that if the knife blade perforated the heart, he requested they hang the soldier. Henry later died and the authorities examined Henry. The knife blade just barely penetrated Henry's heart. The deserted was hung for murder.

It is unknown if Henry was alive when Paris Bullard was born.

By 1864/65, the Confederate Army had pulled its troops out of eastern Tennessee.
Family oral history suggests that after Celia Bullard's husband, Henry, passed on, she lost her standing in the family. Celia remained in Claiborne County, Tennessee until at least 1870.

Depiction

There is no known record of Celia after the 1970 Census. She died sometime after 1870 and before 1880. The date and location is unknown.

* In June of 1846, Henry Bullard enlisted in the U.S. Army as a volunteer in the Mexican-American War (1846-1848.) Henry received a surgeon's discharge in October, 1846. Although speculative, Henry might have had a disability which hindered him from joining the Union Army during the Civil War.

There is some family oral suggestion, but not proven, that Celia moved to Missouri along with other Haynes family members after 1870.

Paris Bullard is Born

Claiborne County 1862

In July, 1862, Paris Bullard was born in Claiborne County, Tennessee.*

Paris' mother, Celia (Haynes) Bullard was ~31 years old. Paris was the fourth and final child of Henry Bullard and Celia Bullard. There is a family assumption that Paris was named after Celia's first cousin, Jonathan Paris (J.P) Haynes.

In time, Paris Bullard would marry Lucy Cornelia Walker (b.1867) in 1882. He would marry a second time to Dicie (Lingar) Kibert (b. May 24, 1886) in 1911. Paris would marry for a third time in 1916 to Martha Venters (b. 1874).

* The exact date of Paris Bullard's birth is unknown. A number of U.S. Census' and his 1936 death certificate records Paris being born in "July 1862."

 Although conjecture, there is a good assumption that Paris Bullard was named after Celia Bullard's first cousin, Jonathan Paris (J.P.) Haynes (b. 1844.) "J.P." was the son of Celia's older brother, Abraham Haynes. (In 1870, J.P. founded the Knoxville, Tennessee Haynes-Henson Shoe Company located on Jackson Avenue. Whatever connection between Celia and J.P. is lost in history. (It is unknown if Henry Bullard, died before Paris was born, but their first three son's were named after Bullard descendants (William, Isaac and John). Paris was the last son who could have taken a Haynes name.

By 1870, Celia Bullard (39) was living in Claiborne County, Tennessee with her four sons William B. (15), Isaac (13), John A. (11) and Paris (8).* The 1870 U.S. Federal Census of Claiborne County listed Celia as being the head of household living in District 2. Celia's occupation was "Keeping house", while William (15) and Isaac (13) "works on farm."

depiction

The 1870 Census noted that Celia could read but could not write. William (age 15) had "attended school within the year" and could read and write. Isaac (age 13) had not attended school the previous year but could read but not write. John A. (age 11) could neither read nor write.
Paris was 8 with no recording.
No recording was made on Celia's land acreage or tangible assets meaning that after Henry's death, he did not leave his wife and sons a farm and very little means of support. (Of note, Newton Haynes (22) married to Nancy was living nearby.)

As noted, Celia Bullard was listed as the head of the household in the 1870 Census. There is no known record of Celia after the 1870 Census. It is assumed she died before 1880. The date and location is unknown.

 Of note, there was another Celia Bullard who appeared in the Claiborne County, Tennessee 1870 U.S. Census. This Celia was about age 12 (born ~1858) and the daughter of Paris Bullard's uncle, Isaac Bullard Jr. (b. 1830). In 1870, Isaac Bullard Jr. was 36 and married to Tempia Catherine (Worwick) Bullard, age 24. The 1870 census records 6 children in Isaac Jr.'s household. Four of which from his first wife, Rebecca Gibson who he married in 1854: (Nancy A. (14), Celia (12), Elizabeth (10), and Joseph M. (8). Rebecca died sometime after Joseph M was born. Isaac Jr. remarried in 1866 to Catherine (Worwick) Bullard. Their first son, William C. was born ~1867 and their second child, Paralea was born in 1869, a year before the census was taken.

In the 1870's and 1880's more than half the U.S. population lived on a farm (compared to approximately one percent today.) It was a hard life. There was little industrialization to help with the chores and no electricity to illuminate the darkness. Farmers either owned their land or rented a farm and acreage from an owner. In 1870, widow Celia Bullard lived on a rented farm in Claiborne County, Tennessee with her four sons; William B. (age 15) and Isaac (age 13), John A. (age 11) and Paris (age 8). There is no known record of Paris' early years, nor his mother's life during this period. A suggestion of what life was like on the farm of widow Celia Bullard and her sons, can be found in an anonymous journal of a woman in her early 30's.*

"One Farmer's Wife"

The following edited description of farm life was written by an anonymous married woman in her early 30's. Her husband, whom she describes as "innocent of book-learning and "having two children."

"…I have been a farmer's wife for thirteen years, everybody knows that the farmer's wife must of a necessity be a very practical woman, if she would be a successful one.

No man can run a farm without some one to help him. and in this case I have always been called upon and expected to help do anything that a man would be expected to do. My work is so varied that it would be difficult, indeed, to describe a typical day's work.

Any bright morning in May I am out of bed at four o'clock; next, after I have dressed and combed my hair, I start a fire in the kitchen stove, and while the stove is getting hot I sweep the floors and then cook breakfast.

While the other members of the family are eating breakfast, I milk the cow and strain away the morning's milk. By this time it is half-past five o'clock, the men are gone to work and the stock animals loudly pleading to be turned out into the pastures a quarter mile away. The horse in the barn is taken to a spring quite a distance from the barn.

The stock hogs are clamoring for feed, and I carry a pail full of swill to them, and hasten to the house and turn out the chickens and put out feed and water for them, and it is, perhaps, 6.30 a.m.

I have not eaten breakfast yet, but that can wait; I make the beds next and straighten things up in the living room. When this is done I go to the kitchen, which also serves as a dining-room, take a mouthful of food occasionally as I pass to and fro at my work until my appetite is appeased.

By the time the work is done in the kitchen it is about 7:15 a.m. and the cool morning hours have flown, and no hoeing done in the garden yet, and the children's toilet has to be attended to and churning has to be done. Finally the children are washed and churning done, and it is eight o'clock, and the sun is getting hot, but no matter, weeds die quickly when hoed down in the heat of the day.

Lunch hour 11.30 a.m. I comb my hair, and eat a cold meal then put out feed and water for the chickens; set a hen, perhaps, sweep the floors again; sit down and rest; it is nearly one o'clock. I sweep the door yard.

I make and sow a flower bed, and go back to the garden to hoe until time to do the chores at night, but comes along some hogs to the back gate, through the wheat field, and when I go to see what is wrong I find that the cows have torn the fence down, and they, too, are in the wheat field.

With much difficulty I get them back into their own domain and repair the fence. I hoe in the garden till 4 o'clock; then I go into the house and prepare supper and prepare something for the lunch pail tomorrow. When supper is all ready it is set aside, and I pull a few hundred plants of tomato, sweet potato or cabbage for transplanting, set them in a cool, moist place where they will not wilt, and I then go after the horse, water him, and put him in the barn; then go after the cows and milk them, feed the hogs, put down hay for the horses, and put oats and corn in their troughs, and fasten up the chickens, and it is dark. By this time it is 8 o'clock p.m.; my husband has come home, and we are eating supper. When we are through eating, I make the beds ready, and the children and their father go to bed. I wash the dishes and get things in shape to get breakfast quickly the next morning. It is now about 9 o'clock p.m. and after a short prayer I retire for the night."*

Paris Bullard

There is circumstantial evidence that Paris's mother, Celia Bullard, died sometime before 1880.
Celia is not found in any 1880 U.S. Census documents.
Conversely, the 1880 U.S. Census reflected that all four of Celia's sons were living in four separate households in Claiborne and Union County, Tennessee. Two sons were married, two were single.

In 1880, Celia's oldest son, William B. (b. 1853), was a 27 year old farmer. He married Sarah A. Rogers in 1872. The couple was living in Claiborne County, Tennessee with their two children, James H. and Jessee.

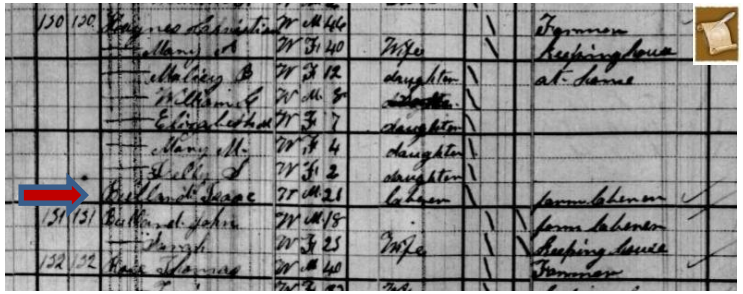
1880 U.S. Census (Claiborne County, Tennessee*

Celia's second son, Isaac Bullard (b. ~1859) was 21 years of age in 1880. He was a "farm laborer", single, and living in Union County, Tennessee in the household of Christian Haynes (b. 1834). (Christian was the son of Abraham Haynes (b. 1811) and Celia Bullard's first cousin.)
Isaac lived next door to his younger brother, John A. Bullard.



Isaac Bullard (laborer)
1880 U.S. Census (Union County, Tennessee

In 1880, Celia's third son, John A. Bullard (age 19) had recently married Sarah A. Jesse in October, 1879 in Union County, Tennessee. The 1880 U.S. Census (Union County) records John A. as a "farm laborer" meaning that he did not own a farm. Also living in John A. Bullard's household was Thomas Rose, age 40.

In 1880, Paris Bullard (See U.S. Census transcription error below#) was 18 years old and a "boarder" in the household of Marsillus Yoakum (age 64), and his family in Claiborne County, Tennessee. The 1880 U.S . Census lists Paris' occupation as "Farming." Speculation is that Paris was working on the Yoakum farm due to the death of his mother. Another person living with the Yoakum family was a black servant, George W Dotson (age 35.)

 U.S. Census (Claiborne County, Tennessee) SDistrict 1, EDistrict 104, 13th Civil District, p. 11 (June 10, 1880)

There appears to be an enumerator transcribing error in the 1880 census H/H of Marsillus Yoakum. Marsillus had a son named Joseph C. Yoakum He is recorded in the H/H census as "Josire C" Yoakum. On the next census line, the enumerator records, "Bullard, Josire, M, 20, Boarding.' The recording of the name "Josire" two times appears to be in error. The discrepancy in all likelihood explains why the name "Paris Bullard" does not appear in any Claiborne or Union County 1880 census data.

Lucy Cornelia (Walker) Bullard*

Lucy Cornelia Walker (nickname Nela) was born on September 29, 1867 in Walker Ford/ Hickory Valley area of Union County, Tennessee. Her father was John Gilmore Walker, a blacksmith (b. November 29, 1834 in Mulberry Creek, Claiborne County (presently Hancock County, Tennessee.) Lucy's mother was Lucinda Atkins (b. March 1, 1838 in Grainger County, Tennessee and died May 5, 1913.) John G. Walker married Lucinda Atkins on September 11, 1856.
Lucy Walker had eight siblings: Samuel Hilton Walker (b. 1857, d. 1931); Emily Lodusky Walker Needham (b. 1866, d. 1895); Louis Tilman Walker (b. 1872, d. 1888); Minnie Catherine Walker Jacobs (b. 1872, d, 1940); Mallie Virginia Walker (b. 1874, d. 1920) and William Oscar Walker (b. 1878, d. 1960.), Mary Frances Walker, and Dellia M. Walker.

When Lucy was 15 years old, she married Paris Bullard on October 15, 1882 in Union County, Tennessee. Paris was 20 years old.
Lucy's nickname Nealie or Nela).

Paris and Lucy had eight children, all males. Three died at an early age:*

1. Isaac Rector Bullard (b. August 28, 1883 in Union County, Tennessee. Died August 6, 1957.) Married Bertha Buckner (b. Mar 26, 1878)
2. Charles Albert Bullard (b. August 16, 1885 in Union County, Tennessee. Died January 13, 1962 in Knox Co., Tennessee.) Married Lilly Clark
3. Clida C. Bullard (b. March 1, 1888 in Union County, Tennessee. Died February 26, 1890.)
4. Willie C. Bullard (b. June 28, 1890 in Union County, Tennessee. Died September 17, 1890.)
5. Leary (Lira) Claude Bullard (b. October 12, 1891 in Tazewell, Claiborne County, Tennessee. Died May 1, 1967 Columbiana Co., Ohio.)
6. Carl Spurgeon Bullard (b. June 28, 1893 in Union County, Tennessee. Died February 16, 1914 in Knox Co., Tennessee.)
7. Ernest Frits Bullard (b. September 26, 1898 in Union County, Tennessee. Died sometime after 1930. Wise County, VA.)
8. Elbert Bullard (b. May 9, 1903 in Union County, Tennessee. Died April 30, 1907.)

Lucy C. (Walker) Bullard died of pneumonia (abscess of lungs) on January 9, 1910 at the age of 43.

Paris Bullard

Union County 1890

The original data for the 1890 U.S. Federal Census no longer exists. Almost all the state population schedules were damaged in a fire in Washington, D.C. in 1921.

The surviving 1890 census records were completely destroyed by Federal government order in 1934/1935.
This is unfortunate since the information in the 1890 U.S. Census might have revealed additional information on Paris Bullard, his mother, Celia Bullard, plus information on Paris' family by his first wife, Lucy Walker, and information on his second wife, Dicie (Lingar) Bullard and her parents.

Of note, the 1890 census announced that the frontier region of the United States no longer existed, and that the Census Bureau would no longer track the westward migration of the U.S. population

Of note, Paris and his family lived in nearby Union County, Tennessee, but Paris was ordained in the Sugar Grove Baptist Church in nearby Claiborne County, Tennessee. Little is known of Paris's preaching or teachings.

The only other known mention of Paris Bullard's ministry is recorded in the minutes of the Straight Creek Missionary Baptist Church records on June 1, 1910. The "Rev. Paris Bullard" was elected moderator pro tem.

Lucy had died 5 months earlier and Paris was living with his brother, John A. Bullard, in Union County, Tennessee. Paris' father-in-law, John Gilmore Walker was also listed as a member of the church.

Lucy Cornelia (Walker) Bullard dies*

On January 9, 1910, at the age of 43, Paris Bullard's wife, Lucy C. (Walker) Bullard, died in Union County, Tennessee of pneumonia (abscess of lungs.)*

depiction

At the time of Lucy's death, Paris Bullard, was a carpenter by trade and an ordained Baptist Minister. Paris was a widower at age 48.

When Lucy died, three of her eight children had passed away:
- Clida C Bullard died in 1890 at age 2.
- Willie C Bullard died in 1890 at age 3 months.
- Elbert Bullard died in 1907 at age 4.

Five sons survived Lucy:
- Isaac Rector Bullard was 27 years old.
- Charles A Bullard was 25
- Leary C Bullard was 19
- Ernest F Bullard was 12
- (Carl S. Bullard would die four years later in 1914 at the age 21.)

In two years time, on Christmas Eve 1911, Paris Bullard would marry a second time to Dicie (Lingar) Kibert. They would have two children: Wanda Bullard and George K. Bullard.

In 1910, William Howard Taft was President of the United States and Theodore Roosevelt becomes the first former President to ride in an airplane.

Paris Bullard: Widower

Four months after Paris Bullard's wife, Lucy (Walker) Bullard died on January 9, 1910, the 1910 U. S. Census was taken in Union County, Tennessee on April 15, 1910.*
Paris is was found living in a nearby farm owned by his brother, John A. Bullard and wife Mary A. (How long Paris had been living on his brother's farm is unknown.) Paris listed his occupation as "house carpenter." Paris conveyed that he was out of work for 20 weeks the previous year, 1909. (Paris did not report nor mention that he was a Baptist Minister.)

It is curious that Paris reports in the Census that he owned a house near his brother, but did not live there.
Also noteworthy, is that Lucy Bullard died in January 1910, but by April of 1910, three of Paris' sons were not living with Paris. Ernest Frits (age 12), Paris' youngest son, was living in Union County with Lucy's parents, John G. Walker (age 74) and Lucinda (age 72). It is unknown where the other two teenage sons (Carl S. age 17, and Leary C. age 19) were living. Two other sons, (Charles A. age 25 and Isaac R. age 27) being adults, are assumed to have left Paris' household before 1910.

One must speculate why widower Paris Bullard, who reportedly owned his own house, would not be living in it with his three sons (ages 12, 17, and 19), but instead was living with his brother, John A Bullard.

In 1910, Dicie (Lingar) Kibert, age 24, (Paris Bullard's future wife), was recently divorced from her husband, Edgar L. Beler (also spelled Beeler.) Dicie (and daughter, Hazel Beler, age 7) were living in the Claiborne County, Tennessee household of her adopted parents George W. (Pap) Kibert and wife Mary E. Kibert.#

Dicie (Lingar) Kibert-Beler-Bullard (Synopsis)

Dicie Lingar

Dicie (Virginia/Jennie) Lingar was born on May 24, 1886 in Shawanee, Tennessee near present day Harrogate (Claiborne County), Tennessee.
Dicie's biological parents were Leander (Lee) Lingar (b. Sept 10, 1842) and Miriam (McNeal) Hazelwood (b. ~1847).
Leander Lingar was a farmer.
Leander and Mariam had two children:
(1) Verna (Vernie) Lingar (b. 1882)
(2) Dicie (Virginia) Lingar (b. 1886)

Leander Lingar died on March 7, 1893 in Harrogate, (Claiborne County), Tennessee. Both of Dicie's parents had died of unknown causes.
In 1893, Dicie was ~7 years old. Her brother, Vernie, was ~11 years old.

George W Kibert Adoption

Sometime in the early 1890's, Dicie Lingar (~7) was adopted by George W. Kibert (b. 1842) and wife Mary E. (Scott) Kibert in Claiborne County, Tennessee.
Little is known of Dicie's early life. What is known is that Dicie was raised by prominent, well established Claiborne County parents who were in their late 50's when they adopted Dicie.

Beler (Beeler) Marriage

Sometime around 1902, Dicie (Lingar) Kibert married Edgar Lindsay Beler (also spelled Beeler.) Dicie was ~16 years old. Edgar was 23 years old. A year later, on August 16, 1903, Edgar and Dicie's only child, Hazel Lee Beler was born. A few years after the marriage, Edgar and Dicie divorced.

Bullard Marriage

On Christmas Eve, December 24, 1911, Dicie (Lingar) Kibert married Paris Bullard in Claiborne County, Tennessee. Thirteen months after the marriage, in January 1913, Dicie bore a daughter, Wanda Jean Bullard in Claiborne County, Tennessee.

Dicie was raised, married and was buried in Claiborne County, Tennessee. She briefly lived for a time in Middlesboro, Kentucky in 1940 and spent her remaining years residing in Lafollette, (Campbell County), Tennessee.

Dicie (Lingar) Kibert Bullard died on September 16, 1970 at the age of 84 and is buried in Ely Cemetery in Claiborne County, Tennessee.

Dicie Lingar

Claiborne County

Dicie (Virginia/Jennie) Lingar was born on May 24, 1886 in Shawanee, Tennessee near present day Harrogate (Claiborne County), Tennessee.[#] Dicie's biological parents were Leander (Lee) Lingar (b. Sept 10, 1842) and Miriam (McNeal) Hazelwood (b. ~1847).[##] Leander and Mariam married ~1880-1881. It was the second marriage for both couples.[] Leander Lingar's parents were John Lingar (b. ~1819) and Sarah Chumbley (b. ~1823). Both Lingar men were farmers.

Leander and Mariam had two known children:

(1) Verna (Vernie) Snow Lingar (b. May 10,1882)
(2) Dicie (Virginia) Lingar (b. May 24, 1886.)

Leander Lingar died on March 7, 1893 in Harrogate, Tennessee and is buried in Lingar Cemetery in Claiborne County, Tennessee. (Tombstone to the right.) Mariam Hazelwood Lingar died sometime after 1886. Both died of unknown causes.

Leander Lingar Tombstone

At the time of Leander's death, Vernie was ~11 years old and Dicie was ~7 years old. (The absence of a 1890 U.S. Census (burned in a fire) makes it difficult to determine Vernie and Dicie's whereabouts in Claiborne County, Tennessee from 1882 to 1900. Also difficult to determine, if Vernie and Dicie had siblings by Leander and Mariam Lingar.)

Sometime after Leander Lingar's death in 1893, Dicie Lingar was adopted by George W. Kibert. It is unknown where Vernie lived after the death of Leander Lingar. Speculation is that he lived with one of the Lingar families who still resided in Claiborne County, Tennessee.

Documentation that Dicie Lingar had an older brother is found in a September 12, 1918 WWI Draft Registration Card. Vernie Snow Lingar, age 36, registered in Benham (Harlan County), Kentucky. He listed his birth, and occupation as "chief electrician." His nearest next of kin was recorded as "Dicie Kibert" who lived in Harrogate, Tennessee. (See Appendix B for image of registration card.) Vernie appeared to be a singular person. It is odd that he does not appear in any U.S. Census records from 1900 to 1940 with the exception of 1920. Vernie is found in the 1920 U.S. Census living in Harlan County, Kentucky. ^^ He is single, 38 years old, renting a dwelling in a coal mining camp called Upper Poor Fork Town. His occupation is listed as "electrician." Vernie was a Master Mason and officer in the Benham County, Kentucky Freemasons Lodge #880. Vernie Lingar never married. He owned a gas station in Middlesboro, Kentucky in the 1930's. The place and date of his death is unknown.

Mariam Hazelwood's parents were Peter Hazelwood (b.~1804 in Virginia) and Lucy, last name unknown (b.~Unk). Mariam married two times. (1) John McNeal, and (2) Leander Lingar.

* Leander Lingar's parents were John Lingar (b. ~1819) and Sarah Chumbley (b. ~1830). John Lingar was a farmer in Claiborne County, Tennessee and resided on Lonesome Valley Road. Leander Lingar had nine siblings: Sarah (b.~1823), Nafaritt (b.~1840), Robert (b.~1842), Lewis (Louis) (b.1844), John (b.~1845), Marshal (b.~1848), Harvey (b~1850), Frazier (b.~1856), and Phoebe (b.~1858).  Leander Lingar's was previously married to Barbara (last name unknown). The marriage occurred around 1862. The 1870 U.S. Census reveals Leander and Barbara's approximate birthdates. The couple had the following children: Mary Etta (Mollie) (b. ~1863), William (b.~1867), Caladona A. (b. ~1869). George W Kibert Adoption

Sometime after 1893, George W. (Pap) Kibert (b. March 23, 1842*) and his wife Mary E. Scott (b. July 1841) adopted Dicie Lingar in Claiborne County, Tennessee. Mary E. Scott was the daughter of Judge Edward Scott (d. 1844) of Knox County, Tennessee. Mary E's mother was Rebecca Kermer.

The 1900 U.S. Census* lists Dicie as the only person living in the household of George W. Kibert and his wife. The Kibert's had been married for 10 years. The Census transcribes that "Dicy" was an "adopted dau."* (In 1900, George W was 58 years old, Dicie was 14.) George W's occupation was listed at "Manufacturing." He owned a farm (free from a mortgage) in the Powell Valley area of Claiborne County, Tennessee.

Little is known of Dicie's early life. What is known is that Dicie was raised by prominent, well established Claiborne County parents who were in their late 50's when they adopted Dicie.

The 1910 U.S. Census reports that Dicie (Lingar) Kibert, age 27, was still living with George W Kibert and wife Mary E. in Claiborne County, Tennessee.##

The Census reports George W was married once for 20 years, owned his own farm with no mortgage.
The couple had no known biological children.
The 1910 Census records "Dici" as an adopted daughter "married once for six years" with one child.^^ Dicie's occupation was "dressmaker" and general work, for wages. George W listed Hazel Beler (Beeler), age 6, as his "granddaughter."
A year later, in December, 1911,
Dicie Kibert would marry Paris Bullard.

Dicie Kibert marries Edgar Beler; Daughter Hazel

Sometime around 1902, Dicie (Lingar) Kibert married Edgar Lindsay Beler (also spelled Beeler.) It is assumed the marriage took place in Claiborne County, Tennessee although there is no known record of the marriage license.
Dicie was ~16 years old. Edgar was ~23 years old.

On August 16, 1903, Edgar and Dicie's only child, Hazel Lee Beler, was born.
Edgar Beler was born October 8, 1879 in Mississippi.
Edgar Beler worked in the railroad industry as a conductor, and dispatcher. Family oral history suggests Edgar left Dicie or disappeared from Claiborne County, Tennessee a few years after the marriage. Edgar Beler remarried in 1906.*
By 1910, the U.S. Census (Claiborne County, Tennessee) reports "Dici", age 27, was again living in the household of her adopted father, George W. Kibert (age 66), and wife, Mary (age 65). The 1910 Census also records Dicie as being an adopted daughter and was "married for six years." Dicie's occupation was a "dress maker, general work for wages." Also listed in the household was George W. Kibert's "granddaughter", Hazel (age 6).

On March 21, 1921, Hazel Lee Beler married Covington R. Richardson (b. Dec 16,1898, d. July 25, 1937) in Claiborne County, Tennessee.

The couple had nine children: Nancy (b. 1873), Martha (B. 1874), Henrietta "Ritter" (b. 1876), William S. (b. 1882), Theopolius G. (b.1885), Joseph F.(b. 1886), John W. (b. 1888), Benjamin F. (b. 1891), and Lettie D. (b. 1894).

Martha Wrights' parents: William S. Wright and Lettishia Bates Wright c. 1900

On July 31, 1893, Martha Wright, age 19, married William (Willie) Venters (b. April 9, 1874, d. 31 Aug 1901) in Letcher County, Kentucky. Martha and William had five children:* Letty (b. ~1894), James Martin (b. ~1895), Coleman (b. 1898), and John (b. ~1900), plus Hattie (b. ~1905).

Martha's husband, William (Willie) Venters died on Aug 1901. Martha was 27 years old. Fifteen years later, Martha Venters married Paris Bullard on November 11, 1916.

The connection between Paris Bullard and Martha Venters can possibly be found in through Ernest Frits Bullard, son of Paris Bullard and Lucy (Walker) Bullard. Ernest F. was living in Letcher County, Kentucky in the mid 1910's.#

Speculation is that Paris was living (or visiting) his son, Ernest, when he met widow Martha Venters.

The Marriage Affidavit and License that Paris Bullard signed said he, "…swears that the above is true to the best of my knowledge and belief" is illuminating.

Paris states he is a "widower" but for all known records, he was still married to Dicie Kibert Bullard. (Their son, George K., was born 16 months before Paris married Martha.)

Paris records his place of birth as "Knoxville, Tennessee." His place of birth was Claiborne County, Tennessee.

He lists his occupation on the License as "Contractor & Builder." In actuality, Paris' occupation was a "carpenter" which he listed a number of times on U.S. Census reports. (The marriage was performed on November 10, 1916, but the Certificate Bond and Affidavit was recorded a day later, on November 11, 1916.)

In four years time, the 1920 U.S. Census reveals a curiosity. Martha, living with two of her children in Seco (Letcher County), Kentucky, reported her last name as "Bullard," head of household, and a "widow."## The 1920 Census finds Paris Bullard living in neighboring Wise County, Virginia as a "boarder." It appears the 1916 marriage was short lived.

There is another "daughter" listed as "Hattie" (b. ~1905.) The 1920 U.S. Census gave the name as "Hattie Pigman."

The 1920 U.S. Census, taken in January 1920, reveals Paris Bullard is living in or near Appalachia (Wise County), Virginia.* He was 58 years old, and living in a boarding house along with three other men. Paris lists his occupation as a salaried "Carpenter U.S. C. C."

There are discrepancies in the Census information. Paris's name is misspelled "Parris" with his age listed as 55 rather than 57. (Of note, Paris records his birthplace and parents birthplaces as "U. States" rather than Tennessee and lists himself as "widowed.")

Living nine doors down from Paris' boarding house in Wise County, Virginia was Ernest Frits Bullard (age 21) and his wife, Martha (age 22) and their son Ralph Bullard (age 2). *

Ernest F. (b. 1898) was the son of Paris and Lucy Walker. The 1920 U.S. Census lists "E.F. Bullard's " occupation as a carpenter, the same occupation as Paris Bullard.

Dicie Kibert Bullard & Martha Venters Bullard 1920

Claiborne County, TN 1920
Letcher County, KY

When Paris Bullard was living in a boarder house is Wise County, Virginia in 1920, the 1920 U. S. Census reports Dicie Kibert Bullard was residing in Claiborne County, Tennessee. Martha Venters Bullard was residing in Letcher County, Kentucky.

Dicie Kibert Bullard

In 1920, Dicie Kibert Bullard was living in Claiborne County, Tennessee on the farm of her adopted father, G.W. Kibert, age 78. The 1920 U. S. Census reports "Bicie" (misspelling) was 33 years old and "D" divorced. Dicie recorded her last name as "Kibert" and not Bullard. Also living in G.W. Kibert's household was Hazel Beeler, age 16 as a "granddaughter" of G.W. Kibert, plus a "Harris" Bullard (age 7) and George Bullard (age 4). Notation: There appears to be a transcription error in the 1920 Census. The census enumerator transcribed "Harris" Bullard as G.W. Kibert's "grandson" but the birth date coincides with Dicie's daughter, Wanda Bullard (b. 1913.) It is assumed that the "Harris" is in fact, Wanda Bullard, daughter of Dicie Kibert. How or why this error occurred is unknown.#

Martha (Venters)Bullard

Paris Bullard had married Martha Venters in 1916 in Letcher County, Kentucky. Four years later, in the 1920 Seco (Letcher County) Kentucky Census, Martha recorded her name to the census enumerator as "Martha Bullard" and not "Martha Venters."

She is listed as the head of household, and a "widow." Living with Martha in Seco, Kentucky are two of her children; Colemen Venters (21) and Hattie Pigman (15). **

Martha (Wright) Venters- Bullard died in 1925 at the age of 51.

Although speculative, the census enumerator could have been in a conversation as to who was Wanda Bullard's father, and inadvertently was thinking Paris and wrote and misspelled "Paris" as "Harris" and as G.W. Kibert's "grandson."

Paris Bullard living in Blout/Knox County, Tennessee

Knoxville, TN 1920-1922

Five months after the U.S. Census was taken, Paris Bullard was living in Townsend (Blount County), Tennessee. It is assumed Paris followed his son, Earnest F. Bullard (b. 1898) and his wife Martha Stacy from Wise County, Virginia to Townsend, Tennessee. (Ernest F. was the son of Paris and Lucy Walker.)

Both father and son were carpenters by trade.
In June 1920, Earnest's wife, Martha, gave birth to a still born daughter.

Sometime between 1920 and 1922, Paris Bullard moved from Blount County, Tennessee to nearby Knoxville, Tennessee.
In the 1922 The Knoxville City Directory (a forerunner of the city phone book), Paris is listed as living at 19 ½ Market Square in Knoxville. His occupation was "carp" or carpenter. *

Market Square is named for the Market House that once stood in the center of downtown Knoxville. Farmers from all over East Tennessee would bring their wagons to the Market House to sell their wares with the Square serving as the heart of the early downtown business district.

Stock Market Crash and the Great Depression

Tennessee 1929

Knoxville and surrounding areas

When the stock market crashed on October 29, 1929, most Tennesseans felt the brunt of the Crash. When the National Banks in Tennessee collapsed in 1930, it set off a chain reaction of bank failures throughout the South. Eventually, 120 banks folded, causing much financial hardship to most Tennesseans.

October 24th, 1929

WALL ST. PANIC AS STOCKS CRASH

Billions lost; wave of selling engulfs the financial market

When thousands attempted to withdraw their deposits from local banks, it triggered further bank failures. The Great Depression in the South brought the hard times to the average Southerner.

In all cities and towns throughout Tennessee, businesses were forced to lay off workers, reduce wages, or close their doors. "Bread lines" and "soup kitchens" formed in most towns and cities. Homeless families built shanty towns on the river's banks. Cash had all but disappeared.

As white Tennesseans were forced to accept blue collar and service jobs such as cooking and cleaning, previously considered "colored" jobs, blacks could find no work at all. By the mid 1930s, industries in Knoxville that had once been made up largely of black workers had become totally white.

By the winter of 1932, social workers in Tennessee cities reported that people were malnourished and some were on the brink of starvation.

Tennessee farmers were among the worst affected by the Great Depression. Tennesseans who owned their farm land were able to survive the Great Depression by growing their own food for consumption. They kept their purchases to an absolute minimum, and "made do" with what they could produce on their own.

Ironically, the Depression led to a reversal of migration where sons and daughters, laid off from city jobs, came home, often bringing their families with them to eke out a living on the old homestead.

Standard of living in Knoxville dropped and wages fell to a mere 30 cents per hour for common laborers. Once-stable, middle-class workers became transients in search of work.

The Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) was established by the U.S. Congress in 1933 as a critical component of President Franklin Roosevelt's Depression-era "New Deal."

The TVA was created to provide jobs at the height of the Great Depression, provide navigation and flood control along the Tennessee Rivers, and create hydroelectric power for surrounding communities.

The Great Depression lasted until the late 1930's. It was the longest, deepest, and most widespread depression of the 20th century.

The 1930 U.S. Census of Knox County, Tennessee reports Paris Bullard as "head of household" and living in the Vestal area of Knoxville, Tennessee.*

Paris lists his age as 67. Also living in the household is a white female, Billie (or Bellie) Williamson (b.~1877.) Billie is 53 years old. Her household relationship is recorded as "Servant/Housekeeper." Both are listed as "widowed." Little is known of Billie Williamson.

The 1930 U.S. Census also reports Paris is no longer a boarder but owns the house he is living in.* The value of which was $2,000.^^ (The last time Paris owned a house was in 1910. The year when his first wife, Lucy Walker Bullard, died.) How Paris found the means to own a house is unknown.

It is somewhat plausible Paris could have built the house since he was a house carpenter by trade. (The 1930 Census reports Paris' occupation as "carpenter/house builder" … "for wages."

The 1930 U.S. Census* reports Dicie Kibert Bullard (age 43) was head of household, "widowed," and living in Claiborne County, Tennessee with her son, George K Bullard (age 15.)

George K. Bullard
c. 1930

Dicie lists her last name as "Kibert" and not Bullard. Dicie owned the house where she resided. It is assumed Dicie lived in a modest house on or near the farm of her deceased adopted father, George W Kibert. (George W Kibert died four years earlier in 1926.)

The value of the home was $800.) The recording of Dicie's occupation was "None." Since Dicie had no known source of income, it is assumed George Kibert acquired the house for Dicie before he passed.

depiction

Living next door to Dicie was Covington Richardson and wife, Hazel, (Dicie's oldest daughter), and their daughter Rachael.

Of note, the 1930 Census enumerators asked respondents if they owed a radio. Dicie's household recorded "no."

1930 Crosley Radio

Dicie's second daughter, Wanda Bullard was not recorded in Dicie's 1930 U.S. Census household. In March 1928, Wanda had married Ira Carl Rowland in Claiborne County, Tennessee and lived in a separate household.

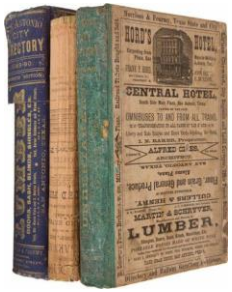
Paris Bullard living in Knoxville, Tennessee

Knox County, TN 1930's

In the early 1930's, during the first half of the Great Depression, Paris Bullard can be found listed in the Knoxville City Directory living in a modest house on Valley Avenue in an area called Vestal in Knoxville, Tennessee.* (City Directories were forerunning of the phone directory that typically listed the name, occupation and address of residents living in the city.) Five Knoxville City Directories (1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, and 1935) lists Paris' occupation as a "carp," carpenter and "r" residing in a rented house on Valley Avenue.



The information in the five Directories contradict the 1930 U.S. Census information that reports Paris owning a house valued at $2,000. Paris either lost ownership of the house during the early years of the Great Depression, or the reported 1930 census information was incorrect.

Another resident listed in the Knoxville City Directories is Paris' son, Charles A. Bullard (b. 1885.) Charles A. was the son of Paris and first wife, Lucy Walker.

Paris Bullard Synopsis

Paris Bullard was born in the early years of the Civil War in July of 1862. His parents were Henry Bullard and Celia (Haynes) Bullard. Paris had three siblings: William B Bullard, Isaac Bullard and John A. Bullard. Paris was the fourth and final child of Henry and Celia Bullard. Paris' childhood years were spent in Claiborne County, Tennessee.

Paris was a carpenter by trade. He was ordained a Baptist Minister in the early 1900's. Family oral history recalls that in his later years, Paris would dream all night of making boxes in his sleep.

Paris Bullard married Lucy C. Walker in 1882. The couple raised eight sons in neighboring Union County, Tennessee. Lucy died in 1910. Paris would marry a second time in 1911 to Dicie (Lingar) Kibert.
Paris and Dicie resided in Arthur, (Claiborne County), Tennessee.

Paris Bullard was the father of Wanda Bullard and George K. Bullard from his second marriage to Dicie Kibert Bullard. Family oral history relates that shortly after Dicie bore daughter, Wanda, Paris left the house to get wood and didn't return for a year. While Dicie was carrying her second child, George K. in 1915, Paris went out to buy baking soda and returned three years later.
Paris married a third time to Martha Venters in 1916.

One could say Paris was a wanderlust or drifter during the latter part of his life. He spent a number of years living in boarding establishments in Tennessee and Virginia near his sons from his marriage to Lucy Walker.

Paris was last seen by the Bullard family in 1935 when he traveled by bus from Knoxville, Tennessee to visit Dicie Bullard for a few hours in Lafollette, Tennessee. Paris had been gone for twenty years. When Paris said goodbye, it would be the last time Dicie Bullard would ever see Paris.

A year later, in 1936, Paris was visiting his son, Leary Claude (L.C.) in East Liverpool, Ohio. He died there on June 10, 1936. Paris was one month shy of turning 74.

Paris Bullard's Siblings (Sketches)

Henry Bullard (~1827 - ~1862)

Celia Haynes (~1831 – 1870/1880)

William B. (Bowyer) Bullard

Willam B. Bullard was born on Nov 26, 1853 in Union County, TN.
He married Sarah A. Rogers (b. Jun 2, 1853) on December 7, 1872 in Claiborne County, Tennessee. He was a farmer.
Children:
James H. b. 1874
Jesse L. b.1876
Jarvis R. b. 1882
Cam H. b. 1886
Hassie L. b. 1889
William B. Bullard died in Union County, Tennessee on Feb 26, 1936 at the age of 81. An oddity in his death certificate records that his son, Jarvis R. Bullard, did not know the first or last name of William B's mother, Celia Haynes. (See Appendix D)

See page 21 for 1880 synopsis of the Bullard brothers.

Isaac H. (Henry) Bullard

Isaac H. Bullard was born in ~1859 in Claiborne County, Tennessee. Little is known of Isaac. The last known document of Isaac H. was the 1880 U.S. Census where he was a boarder in the household of Christian Haynes. Isaac was 21 years old.
It is assumed Isaac died before 1900.

John A Bullard tombstone

John A. (Abraham) Bullard

Dicie Kibert Bullard and son George K living in Middlesboro, Kentucky

Four years after the death of Paris Bullard, Dicie (Lingar) Kibert Bullard is found living with her son, George K Bullard, (listed as head of household) in the 1940 U.S. Census, Middlesboro (Bell County), Kentucky.* Dicie was listed as "widow," 53 years old, with no occupation. Her son, George K, single, 24, recorded his occupation as "salesman, department st" making $832 a year.

Note: By law, the U.S. Census Bureau releases name and population census data 72 years following the last census enumeration. The 1940 U.S. Census data was released in 2012. The 1950 U.S. Census data will be released in 2022.

Two years later, in 1942, George K. Bullard enlisted in the U.S. Army. In November, 1943, George K. married Frances Costanzo in Middlesboro, Kentucky.

Middlesboro, Kentucky, 1940's

In 1948, Dicie's second daughter, Wanda (Bullard) Gibson and family moved to Grand Junction, Colorado.
Sometime in the mid to late 1940's, Dicie Bullard moved to Lafollette (Campbell County), Tennessee. She lived out the rest of her life in a boarding house located at 204 E. Ash St., Lafollette (Campbell County), Tennessee until her death in 1970.

Dicie's first daughter, Hazel (Beler) Richardson, husband Covington and daughter, Rachael, resided in Claiborne and Campbell County, Tennessee their entire lives.

Epilogue

Paris Bullard was born in 1862 at the beginning of the Civil War. Abraham Lincoln was President. Paris's occupation evolved from a farm laborer, to a house carpenter. He was ordained a Baptist Minister in the early 1900's. Paris married three times and appears to have become a wanderlust after the death of his first wife, Lucy C. Walker in 1910. In two years time, Paris married Dicie Lingar Kibert in 1911 and had two children. He married again in 1916 to Martha Venters.
Paris spent the latter part of his life living in boarding houses in Tennessee and Virginia near his sons from his marriage to Lucy Walker.
Paris died, at the age of 73 and 11 months in 1936.

The death of Paris Bullard marked the end of the sixth generation of the American Bullard descendant line. Paris' son, George K Bullard (b. 1915) would become the sixth generation. The seventh and eight generations are still living.

And so the Bullard Narrative and story continues . . .

George W Kibert's Parents

Sometime between 1893 and 1900, Dicie Lingar was adopted by George W. (Pap) Kibert (b. March 23, 1842) and his wife Mary E. Scott (b. July 1841) in Claiborne County, Tennessee.*

George W. Kibert's Parents

George W. Kibert's parents were John and Rebecca (Sarver) Kibert. John Kibert (b. October 14, 1803 in Virginia), married Rebecca Sarver (b. January 11, 1814) on November 13, 1830 in Botetourt, Virginia.# John was 27 years old, Rebecca was 16. (Rebecca's father was James Sarver.)

John Kibert was a farmer. Around 1840, John moved from Virginia to Claiborne County, Tennessee. He purchased a farm near Straight Creek in the southwest corner of Claiborne County, Tennessee. A few years later, he sold the farm and moved to the Powell Valley area of Claiborne County about five miles southwest of Cumberland Gap, Tennessee.

This is where he and wife Rebecca raised their six children. Rebecca was known as a "a neat, industrious lady, and raised a nice respectable family."

George W Kibert parents, John Kibert and wife Rebecca (Sarver) Kibert c. 1875

The couple had six children: James Kibert (b. ~1835), George W. Kibert (b. 1841), Malinda Kibert (b. ~1842), Sarah Kibert (b. ~1846), Barthena Kibert (b. ~1851), and John Kibert Jr. (b. ~1856).^^

In 1850, John Kibert owned 1 male slave age ten; name unknown. The whereabouts of the male minor slave's family is unknown. Considering the slave accounts of most eastern Tennessee farmers, in all probability, the minor slave's family was living on a nearby farm. Too, John Kibert's son, George W, was nine years old at the time. Speculation would assume both boys played together on the Kibert farm.

George W Kibert: Civil War Soldier

George W Kibert: Confederate Soldier

Shortly after John Kibert moved to Claiborne County, Tennessee, his son, George W Bullard was born near Lone Mountain on March 23, 1842 in Claiborne County, Tennessee.# Little is known about George W's early life. Like most children in eastern Tennessee, he probably did chores around the farm and played with his friends.

In 1860, on the Eve of the Civil War, George W Kibert was 19 years old, single, and living on his father's farm in Claiborne County, Tennessee.*

At the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861, George W enlisted as a Private in the Confederate 29th Regimental (Infantry) unit, Company C, under Claiborne County, Tennessee Captains Robert F. Patterson, James W. Fulkerson, and John B. Hodges. (George W's older brother, James Kibert, also enlisted in the same unit.) The 29th Regiment, mustered in Greene County, Tennessee, in September, 1861.
The Regiment participated in conflicts at Fishing Creek, Munfordville, Perryville, and campaigns at Murfreeboro, Nashville and Atlanta.
By 1863, the Regiment totaled 236 men with 173 under arms.

Confederate enlistees

In 1864, at age 29, George W Kibert was promoted to Sergeant in the 29th Regiment Confederate Army

In late November, 1864, George W Kibert fought at The Battle of Franklin in Franklin, Tennessee, as part of the Franklin-Nashville Campaign. It was one of the worst disasters of the war for the Confederate Army. Confederate Lt. General Hood's Army of Tennessee conducted numerous frontal assaults against Union fortified positions and was unable to break through or to prevent the Union Army from a planned withdrawal to Nashville, Tennessee.
The Confederate assault of six infantry divisions numbered almost 20,000 men. (George W Kibert's 29th Regiment was under the command of Confederate Major General Patrick Cleburne.) The Battle of Franklin is sometimes called the "Pickett's Charge of the West", resulted in devastating losses to the men and the leadership of the Army of Tennessee. Fourteen Confederate generals were either killed, wounded or captured, plus 55 regimental commanders.
During the ensuing battle, George W Kibert was captured and taken prisoner. He was sent to a Union POW camp in Louisville, Kentucky.
After its defeat against the Union Army in the subsequent Battle of Nashville, the Army of Tennessee retreated with barely half the men with which it had begun the short offensive. It was effectively destroyed as a fighting force for the remainder of the war. Only a remnant of Kibert's 29th Tennessee Regiment surrendered at wars end in April 1865.

Although most U.S. Census data from 1850 to 1910 report George W Kibert's birth as " 1841" or "May 1841", George W's obituary specifically noted his birth date as March 23, 1842. The author uses the obituary birthdate rather than the estimated U.S. Census information.

Battle of Franklin

THE VALLEY OF DEATH

BY THOMAS CARTWRIGHT; HALLOWED GROUND MAGAZINE, SPRING 2004 ISSUE

Major General Patrick Ronayne Cleburne was angry on the march from Spring Hill, Tennessee, toward the small town of Franklin in the late morning hours of November 30, 1864. After the campaign he was going to demand a full investigation to defend his conduct on November 29 at Spring Hill where the Federals slipped past the Southern forces. General Cleburne had been given information from a "reliable channel" that he was being blamed by General John Bell Hood for the Confederate failure the day before.

Around 2:30 p.m., nearing Franklin, General Cleburne rode up on Winstead Hill after the Federals had withdrawn from it and Breezy Hill. He rested field glasses on a tree stump and, looking toward the Federal lines, he remarked, "They are formidable." A courier from Hood informed General Cleburne that his presence was required for a conference at the home of William Harrison, which stood approximately one-half mile south of Winstead Hill. Hood told his commanders his plans for a frontal assault against the Federal works and asked for opinions. Major Generals Nathan B. Forrest, B. Franklin Cheatham, and Cleburne all advised against an attack over open fields against entrenchments and artillery.

As General Cleburne mounted his horse to return to his division, Hood ordered:

General, form your division to the right of the pike, letting your left overlap the same. General Brown will form on the left with his right overlapping your left. I wish you to move on the enemy. Give orders to your men not to fire a gun until you run the Yankee skirmish line from behind the first line of works in your front, then press them and shoot them in their backs as they run to their main line; then charge the enemy works. Franklin is the key to Nashville and Nashville is the key to independence.

Cleburne replied, "General, I will take the works or fall in the attempt."

Before the fateful Battle of Franklin, General Cleburne held his last meeting with his brigade commanders on Breezy Hill. Brigadier General Daniel C. Govan felt that General Cleburne was "greatly depressed." General Cleburne emphasized Hood's orders that the Federal works must be carried by the point of the bayonet at all hazards. Govan saluted and said, "Well, General, few of us will ever return to Arkansas to tell the story of this battle." Cleburne replied with a sentiment that was prevalent in most of the hearts of the men in the gallant Army of Tennessee: "Well, Govan, if we are to die, let us die like men."

General Cleburne received permission to form his division in columns of brigades to expose as small a front as possible and then to deploy into line of battle when in range of small arms fire without confusion.

Cleburne's Division was made up of Texans in Brigadier General Hiram B. Granbury's Brigade whom General Cleburne called "a band of heroes." Tough Arkansans in Govan's Brigade and gallant Alabamians and Mississippians in Brigadier General Mark P. Lowrey's Brigade also were in the ranks. The 5th Confederate The Federal main defense line was crescent-shaped, with the center located around the brick home owned by Fountain Branch Carter. In many areas the works were six- to eight-feet high with wide ditches on both sides. Planks from the Carters' gin house, barn, other outbuildings, and even eight plows were used in the construction of the breastworks. Part of the entrenchments had been constructed in 1863 and needed only slight improvement. The breastworks began near the Lewisburg Pike and continued onto the Columbia Pike, then westward past Carter's Creek Pike, ending near the northwest side of town. A thorny osage orange grove grew in the Lewisburg Pike area; the Federal soldiers sharpened branches of the osage orange trees and carried them across the pike to form an almost impassable obstruction. In the center of the line, the Carter house and cotton gin house were situated on a small hill. A retrenched line was placed fifty yards behind the main line. About 250 yards southwest of the Carter house was a locust grove, which served as an obstruction to any attacking force. Fort Granger, located north of the Harpeth River, had artillery batteries placed inside to cover the southeast. Another less formidable Federal line was approximately one-half mile south of the main line.

General Frank Cheatham's Corps would assault the center of the Federal works, with Major General John C. Brown's Division on the west side of the Columbia Pike and Cleburne's Division on the east side. Major General William B. Bate's Division would attack to the left of Brown's Division. Lieutenant General Alexander P. Stewart's Corps would assault on the right with Major Generals William Loring, Edward Walthall, and Samuel French's Divisions. Lieutenant General Stephen D. Lee's Corps, coming from Spring Hill, had not yet arrived on the field. It was planned that General Nathan Bedford Forrest would attempt to flank the Federals on the east and west. Infantry Regiment, nearly all Irish and very close to Cleburne, filled out the division.

Cleburne's Division would move forward with approximately 3,000 men. Granbury's and Govan's Brigades were in front with Lowrey's Brigade in reserve. Colonel A.J. Smith's Georgia Brigade was not on the field. General Cheatham later stated of final tense moments:

Before moving our troops from Winstead Hill I had arranged with both Cleburne and Brown, the two divisions under my eye to give them the word with a flag when to move. When their lines swung into position they corrected their alignment and then faced toward me, waiting for the signal to advance. A moment of suspense to see that everything was ready, then the flag dropped, and the line moved forward as steady as a clock.

It was a beautiful Indian summer afternoon with a temperature around 45 degrees. The air was perfectly still, and the skyline was a crimson red. At 4 p.m., as the sun was setting in the southwest, the crescent moon rose in the southeast, and 20,000 Confederates, eighteen brigades, and over 100 infantry regiments marched down the slopes and into immortality. Bands started to play. The blue flag with the white moon of Cleburne's Division was conspicuous among the red St. Andrew's cross battle flags.

Lieutenant W.D. Mintz, 5th Arkansas Infantry, remembered the fateful charge:

We had gone but little ways when the artillery opened fire on us, which had but little effect on the line save when a bursting shell would tear its way through the ranks, the men would soon close in and make the line solid again...

The Federal brigades of Colonel Joseph Conrad and Colonel John Lane in Brigadier General George D. Wagner's Division held the advanced line. Wagner's orders were to fall back if there was a frontal assault. Wagner disobeyed orders, telling a staff officer, "Stand there and fight them." Granbury's hard-hitting Texans were the first to break the center of this advanced Federal line. A memory of this horrific event was later recorded by Private William Eldridge Mathews Preston of the 33rd Alabama:

The ground was open, shells exploding within about one thousand yards of their works and after they had opened on us with small arms the command "double-quick" was given. Then we went on a run and a continuous yell to their works... I was wounded in getting through the abatis, by the time we got to their works out ranks were so thinned that our men could not get over. Many were shot in the attempt...

General Hiram B. Granbury was on foot, encouraging his Texans with his last immortal words: "Forward, men; never let it be said that Texans lag in the fight." A minié ball then hit him in his cheek and passed through the back of his head. Granbury was found on his knees with his hands on his face the next morning, dead.

Cleburne was riding a brown mare that belonged to Lieutenant Tip Stanton, a member of his escort. The horse was killed about eighty yards from the works. James Brandon, a courier from Mississippi, dismounted to give the general his horse. The animal was killed before General Cleburne could place himself in the saddle.

Cleburne moved forward into the smoke, sword in hand, waving his kepi and encouraging his men. Around fifty yards from the Federal works in front of the cotton gin house, a minié ball struck him just below the heart and passed through his body. Captain C.W. Frazer of the 5th Confederate would later write:

He [General Cleburne] sought out our regiment, charged in with it, and died with it. He could have selected no better place.

John McQuaide would later give to the Vicksburg Herald his account of finding General Cleburne's body:

"The terrible report that Cleburne was missing ran throughout our ranks that whole dreadful night... I and two others were the first to discover his dead body at early dawn, the next morning. He was about 40 or 50 yards from the works. He lay flat upon his back, as if to sleep, with his military cap partly over his eyes. He had on a new gray uniform, the coat of the sack or blouse pattern. It was unbuttoned and open; the lower part of his vest was unbuttoned. He wore a white linen shirt which was stained with blood on the front part of the left side, or just off the abdomen... He was in his sock feet, his boots having been stolen. His watch, dress sword, belt and other valuables were all gone; his body having been robbed during the night..."

McQuaide found an ambulance in the charge of Rev. Thomas Markham, Chaplain of Brigadier General Winfield Scott Featherston's Mississippi Brigade. The men with the reverend were lifting the body of Brigadier General John Adams into a wagon. McQuaide guided the men to General Cleburne's body and assisted in placing him in the same wagon.

During the aftermath, every building in Franklin was used as a hospital. The bodies of General Cleburne and General John Adams were brought to Carnton, the home of John McGavock, which stood approximately one-and-a-quarter miles to the east. General Cleburne was placed on the porch next to Generals Adams and Granbury, Brigadier General Otho French Strahl, Lieutenant Colonel R.B. Young, and Lieutenant John Marsh. In 1883, General Frank Cheatham returned to Franklin for the first time since the battle and stated of General Cleburne: "Here one of the best soldiers that ever drew sword gave up his life."

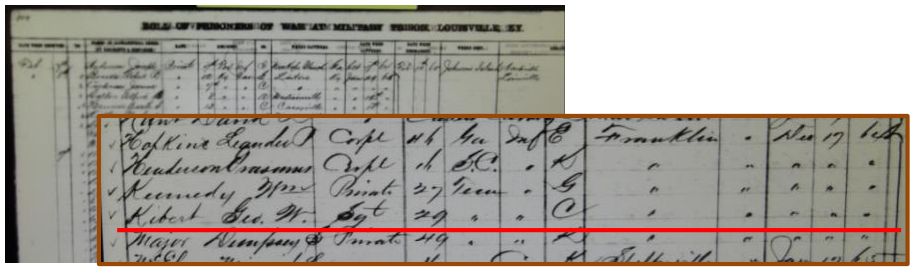
George W Kibert was captured by the Union army at the Battle of Franklin in November 1864, (Franklin is located in Williamson County, 21 miles south of Nashville, Tennessee.)

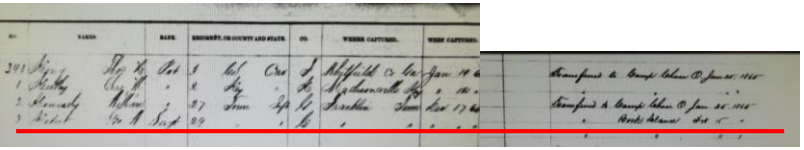
Franklin, Tennessee

On December 17, 1864, George W Kibert was imprisoned at the Union POW camp in Louisville, Kentucky.*



"ROLE OF PRISON OF WAR AT MILITARY PRISON LOUISVILLE KY
"Kibert, Geo. W., Sgt., 29th, Tenn, Inf, Company C, Franklin, Dec 17, 64"*

Three months later, on February 15, 1865, George W Kibert was transferred from the Louisville, Kentucky Union prison to another POW camp at Rock Island, Illinois.*



"Kibert Geo.W., Sergt., 29th, Tenn, Inf...
Transferred to Rock Island Feb 15, 1865"*

*"Until June 1st, 1864, no reasonable complaint could be made in regard to the food furnished the prisoners; but from that date until June, 1865, the inmates of Rock Island were subjected to starvation and all its attendant horrors. I know that this charge was denied by the officers of that prison at the very time the atrocity was being perpetrated. God may forgive whoever caused the deed to be done, but surely there is little hope for whoever denies it now."

Two months after George W Kibert's arrival at Rock Island,^^ General Robert E. Lee surrendered the Confederate Army on April 9, 1865, at Appomattox, Virginia.

Sergeant^ George W, Kibert was released from prison after taking a Sworn "Oath of Allegiance" to the United States on June 17, 1865.*

George W Kibert: Post Civil War Claiborne County

In 1870, five years after the Civil War ended, George W. Kibert, age 29, was single and living on his father's farm in Powell Valley, Tennessee.* George's father, John Kibert, was 67, and his mother Rebecca, was 56. Also living on the farm were George W's siblings James Kibert (37), Malinda Kibert (25), Sarah Kibert (21), Barthena Kibert (17) and John Kibert Jr. (12).

Normally, it would be somewhat peculiar that most of John Kibert's offspring would still be living on the family farm, and all in the same household.

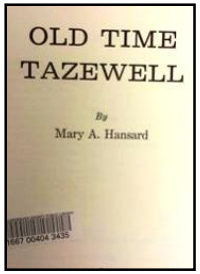
One could assume the post Civil War economy was one where the entire family had to work together to survive after the disruptions of the war. John Kibert's house had to have been large to accommodate all the adults living there. (As a note, in 1870, Paris Bullard was 8 years old.)

depiction

By 1880, George W Kibert (age~39) was still single. The 1880 U.S. Census lists George W's occupation as "storekeeper." He had moved off the family farm and was living as a "boarder" in the household of T.A. (Tilman Anderson) Hamilton, and his wife Catherine Scott, and three of Hamilton's children: John D (12), Will V.H. (8), and Marcelus M. (7). T.A. Hamilton was a Justice of the Peace in Claiborne County , Tennessee.

depiction

By 1890, George W was a prosperous merchant in Claiborne County, Tennessee. In the same year, George W Kibert married Mary E. Scott (b. July 15, 1841, d. February 20, 1916.)^^ Both were 49 years old. Mary E. had been previously married to Fee S. McVey. Mary E. Kibert is buried in Scott Cemetery, Claiborne County, Tennessee. The Kibert's had no biological children.



(Mary Ann Markam Hansard chronicled the lives of many Claiborne County, Tennessee residents who lived in the county in the latter part of the 1800's. In the last decade of her life, she recorded a number of sketches, one being the Kibert family.)

Regarding John Kibert's family, Hansard wrote of his son, George W Kibert:

> "I cannot recollect the names of any except George (W) Kibert of Shawanee. He is well spoken of as a good, prosperous citizen. His wife (Mary E.) was the widow of Fee McVay.# She was the daughter of Mr. Ham (Hamilton) Scott of the Valley.
> One of Mr. (John) Kibert's daughters married a Mr. Carr, and one a Mr. Gulley. There were others, but I do not know them. Mr. (John) Kibert and wife have passed away. They were good citizens. They were members of the Missionary Baptist Church."
> Old Time Tazewell, by Mary A. Hansard, p.210

Correct spelling is McVey. Fee S. McVey (b.~1835) first married Rachel, last name unknown, around 1865. They had three children: Florence O. (b.~1866), Caladonia (b.~1868) and W.V. McVey,(b.~1874). (U.S. Census 1870, Claiborne County, Tennessee, H/H #58, Line 33, 9; and U.S. Census 1880, Claiborne County, Tennessee, District 6, page 146A.) Fee S Mcvey's first wife, Rachael, died sometime in the mid 1870's. Fee S then married Mary E Scott on September 1, 1878 in Claiborne County, Tennessee. Fee S. McVey was 43 and Mary E was 39 years old. (Tennessee, State Marriage Index, 1780-2002," index, FamilySearch F S Mcvey and Mary E Scott, 01 Sep 1878; from "Tennessee State Marriages, 1780-2002," Ancestry; citing p. 340, Claiborne, Tennessee, United States, Tennessee State Library and Archives, Nashville, Tennessee. By 1880, Fee S McVey and wife Mary E were raising Fee's three children from his previous marriage. (U.S. Census 1880, Claiborne County, Tennessee, District 6, page 146A.) Sometime in late 1870's Fee S. McVey died leaving Mary E. Scott a widow.

^^ Marriage year derive from 1900 U.S. Census which lists the couple had been married for 10 years and with no children.

Origin of KIBERT Name*

This very unusual name is apparently first recorded in London in the mid 17th century, which clearly indicates that it is a derivative of an original name.
It is almost certainly of Olde English origin, the basic form being "Cybbel" later found in medieval times as "Kybbel or Kibble" and being job descriptive for a maker (or possibly user) of cudgels - a heavy club.
The modern spellings include Kibbel and Keeble, the name derived from the father's name or ancestor, taking the French suffix "ard" to mean "son of Kibb or Kybb." Dates of recording the name are: Kyberd (1761), Kibert (1691), Kybird (1765), Kibard (1810) , Kybert (1818).

Surnames became necessary when governments introduced personal taxation. In England, this was known as the Poll Tax. Throughout the centuries, surnames have continued to "develop" often leading to surprising variants of the original spelling.
The first recorded spelling of the Kibert family name is shown to be that of Nathan Kibberd. which was dated 1680. Nathan married Rebecca Street in London, England during the reign of King Charles the 11th, who was known as "The Merry Monarch" 1660 - 1685.

Placement for Mike Bullard page

I wish I had a photo of Paris. I've tried my one Bullard cousin. Will see if she can find any. If you have any picture at all, I would send it and see if she recognizes it. We never saw him, so I doubt she would know if she did have something. I believe I sent you the ordination paper. Don't know if it is of interest but here is his son Charles A Senior, on the right who was a carpenter in Knoxville Tenn, married to Lilly Clark from Asheville, NC. On the left then is Charles A. Junior, a night club piano player and entertainer from Knoxville, who lived in Florida and New Orleans, married to Lela Dow. I am in the center. Don't know how far you want to go with any of the rest of us.
I'm copying my cousin Lynda. She has more than I on the Bullard side. Her mother, Barbara was my dad's sister, so like me she is a great grandchild of Paris, through his son, Charles A.
We are so thrilled with your work. I'm especially happy to pass it to my two sons.
